Dreams are powerful things. Dreams can inspire. Dreams can play on our deepest fears. Dreams can even bind us in waking life.

It is in a dream that José, (dir) Juan Javier Pérez's father, makes a promise to his ancestors and his gods to become a flute player. Juan Javier's film picks up later in his father's life, as José struggles with the weight of his sacred, dream-bestowed bond.

'Vaychiletik' is a beautifully rendered story, told with an economy of cinematic and verbal language. Pérez's film screened on the 3rd night of the imagineNATIVE Film and Media Arts Festival being held Toronto International Film Festival's Lightbox. 'Vaychiletik' will screen during the virtual portion of the festival from Oct 23rd to Oct 29th.
